Prof Brian O'Connell
ADEE President 2024-2025

Welcome from Prof Brian O'Connell ADEE President 2024 – 2025

Dear ADEE members, colleagues and friends,

It is my great pleasure, and honour as President, to welcome you to ADEE 2025 and a celebration of ADEE's 50 years of advancing the education of Oral Health Professionals. 50 years is a milestone for any organisation, and it provides us with opportunity to reflect on our achievements to date and launch our vision for our future. In this mind-set we have arrived at our meeting theme of 'ADEE 50: Reflect, Recognise and Reimagine'.

In a world overloaded with information and misinformation offered through AI, social media, virtual reality and open access to research, it is ever more difficult to find the truth. There has never been greater need for scholarship, collaboration, inclusivity and a consensus building association such as ADEE. Our members drive our focus, which is grounded in evidence and informed by patients and students. As ADEE begins its next 50 years we can gain confidence from our past successes in developing standards and advocating for convergence of education for oral health professionals. We can also gain comfort from the welcome we receive from ADEE members wherever we go in Europe and beyond. It truly does feel like an ADEE family, where we value each other's contributions, and respect our differences.

This year the ADEE Board is most grateful to our colleagues in Dublin Dental University Hospital, the office staff at the Faculty of Health Sciences Trinity College, the events team at Trinity College Dublin and our colleagues at the Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland who are all playing some part in the successful hosting of ADEE 2025. Throughout our days together in Dublin we know you will connect with friends old and new, and we have ensured the programme allows you time to reflect and reimagine ADEE's future.

Please join me in wishing ADEE a Happy 50th Anniversary and in starting the next part of our journey together.

ADEE retrospective timeline:
Celebrating 50 years of excellence in dental education

Dear Professor Leighton,

16th September, 1974.

I understand from Arthur Darling that the D.E.A.C. considered at an earlier meeting the Constitution I had prepared for the European Association of Dental Educators. At the meeting of the Steering Committee held in London last week I was asked to prepare comments on this Constitution and incorporate the answers from the various bodies who have considered this Constitution.

It would be helpful to me if you would be kind enough to let me have a copy of the observations made by the D.E.A.C. on this Constitution.

With kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

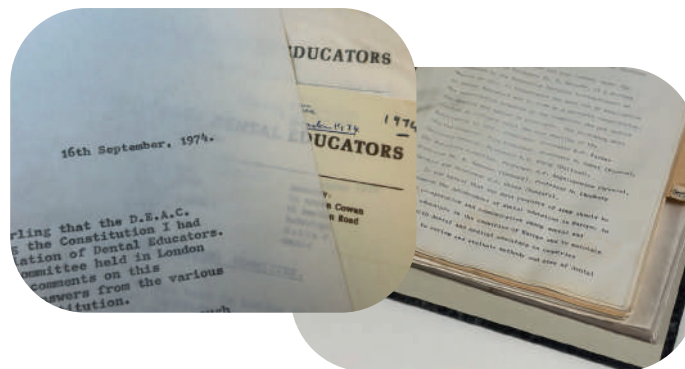

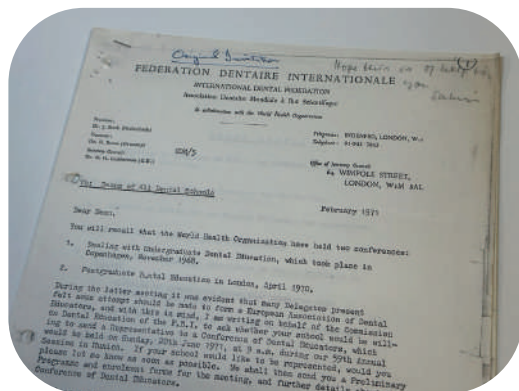

adee

Prof Barry Quinn
ADEE Secretary-General

It would be remiss to allow a 50th anniversary pass without pausing to reflect on key milestone events in ADEE's evolution and history. ADEE represents many things to our members and when asked to reflect on key achievements and memories we are sure that each individual will have a different perspective and highlight what they see as ADEE's ultimate achievement. We are, however, confident that to all members, ADEE is about harmonisation, consensus, collaboration, leadership and of course its people.

When I was charged by the ADEE Executive Committee (Board) to review ADEE achievements and evolve a timeline of key events synonymous with ADEE I wanted to ensure it reflected aspects of each of the five decades. To do this I decided to focus on key organisational outputs, activities and projects. The following timeline explores ADEE's foundation, leadership, the EJDE, our EU funded projects, and the professionalisation of the association through the establishment of a permanent office. It is of course not a comprehensive history, that is not its purpose. However, I hope you enjoy the selection and that the timeline sparks a fond memory or two.

Foundation and early beginnings

Stemming from two World Health Organisation sponsored meetings concerning dental education; undergraduate (1968 Copenhagen) and post graduate (1970 London), and facilitated through the Fédération Dentaire Internationale (FDI), European dental school deans were invited to attend a meeting in Munich in Feb 1971 to explore the need and opportunity to create an association for dental educators in Europe. The key output of this meeting was the establishment of a steering committee, and thus to quote Prof John Scott (ADEE's original Editor in Chief of the EJDE), 'the seeds of the Association for Dental Education in Europe were sown'. The steering committee met on a number of occasions between 1971 and 1975 culminating in the foundation meeting of ADEE, held in Strasbourg, France on 9th of December 1975. At this meeting 39 delegates from 18 countries set down and agreed ADEE's main purpose, constitution and bylaws.

1980s and 90's founding voices and visions

ADEE was founded on and continues to be grounded in the belief that Dental Educators are best placed to understand the needs and challenges of the educational environment we serve. From the outset ADEE was guided and led by a cohort of passionate individuals who volunteered their time and services to advance dental education throughout Europe and beyond. It truly was and remains concerned with what is best for society and the role we play at the intersection of the higher education, health and public sectors. Individuals not only volunteered to serve on the ADEE executive committee and officer roles, but also had an enthusiasm and passion to share their knowledge and insight, through school visits, charitable activities and to devise a best practice approach. For the first 29 years the administrative function of ADEE was serviced by volunteers without who's commitment we could never have become the association we are today. Thank you all for your vision and commitment.

ADEE elects its first female president

While diversity has always been at the core of ADEE and all genders have actively participated from the outset, it would be 1992 before ADEE would elect its first Female President, Professor Jolán Bánoczy, Semmelweis University, Hungary. Prof Bánoczy was a highly respected colleague within FDI, IADR, ERO, and ADEE. She passed away peacefully at the age of 88 in 2016. ADEE has had three further female presidents, Prof Cecilia Christersson, Sweden (2012-2013), Prof Stephanie Tubert-Jeannin, France (2018 – 2019) and Prof Ilze Akota, Latvia (2020-2021).

The European Journal of Dental Education

In the run up to 1996, there was much discussion and enthusiasm around the establishment of a formal journal for the association. The then President Prof Erik Hjorting-Hansen and Editor in Chief Prof John Scott established an agreement with publishers Munksgaard. In its initial years, the journal received circa 50 manuscripts for review annually.

With the advent of online submission this has dramatically changed in recent years with submissions in 2024 reaching almost 500 submissions annually. The journal continues to deliver on its original mission to publish the highest quality content related to dental education and has become a flagship for ADEE.

The DentEd decade

Despite efforts to harmonise European legislation, curriculum standardisation, and pan-European accreditation, it became clear by the mid-1990s that such uniformity would not materialise due to fundamental regional variations in dental education and healthcare systems across Europe. The solution for European dental education lay in DentEd. As Prof. Derry Shanley (ADEE President 1996/97) put it, DentEd was seen by many as "the foster child of ADEE."

DentEd, an EU-funded thematic project, aimed to enable convergence and harmonisation. Initially planned as a three-year project, it evolved into a series of focused initiatives spanning a decade:

- DentEd (1997–2000): defined core competencies, conducted voluntary school visits, and promoted self-assessment.
- DentEd Evolves (2000–2003): expanded the network beyond Europe, hosting global conferences in Prague (2001) and Singapore (2002).
- DentEd III (2004–2007): consolidated DentEd projects, transitioned DentEd to ADEE, established the European dentist profile, and delivered the third global conference in Dublin (2007).
- DentCPD (2010–2012): an Erasmus project focused on developing guidelines for continuous professional development in dentistry.

During the DentEd years, ADEE membership grew significantly, international collaborations expanded, and its contributions gained widespread recognition in dental education.

1997

Establishment of the permanent office within Dublin Dental University Hospital, Trinity College Dublin

From the outset, ADEE did not have a central office nor was it registered formally. In 2004 following an increasing administrative burden linked to DentEd and the continuation of the day-to-day activities, the ADEE executive took a decision to professionalise ADEE's structure and establish a permanent central office within the Dublin Dental University Hospital.

An executive administrator was appointed for the first time with Ms Majella Giles holding this position until her retirement in 2013. Majella served ADEE with a passion and commitment for its vision and through an approach that established a sense of family amongst members. External auditors were also appointed and the Association was registered in Ireland as an unincorporated body with tax exemption.

DentEd Evolves and the Global Congress

A key output of the DentEd Evolves project was the delivery of the first Global Congress held in Prague in 2001. This was the first of three such Global Congresses, followed by Singapore 2002 and Dublin 2007. During the sessions of Global Congresses 1 & 2 work groups explored a vast array of topics from cognition and learning to governance and quality assurance. The output was published in a special edition of the EJDE Vol 6 Supplement 3 2002.

The Third congress explored global curriculum, leadership and potential future opportunities and threats to dental education. The output was again published in a special edition of the EJDE Vol 12 Supplement 1 2008. It is interesting as we again in 2025 engage in global conversations around oral health professionals' education that much of the discussions sound familiar.

The Graduating European Dentist

To paraphrase Prof Antonio Carrassi, the development of ADEE has historically paralleled the evolution of dental education in Europe. Its foundation stems from a need for consensus to accommodate mobility and recognition in the sense of the meaning of these words within the European legislative contexts. It is then unsurprising that in 2017 the, by now much respected and cited, Profile and Competence of the Graduating European Dentist was in need of a revisit.

Drawing on the proven success of the previous collaborative approach of the DentEd taskforces, a new taskforce that incorporated some of the original authors was convened to refresh the concept for the new decade. What evolved was the Graduating European Dentist, an updated framework to assist schools, regulators and interested parties evolve a curriculum. It was mindful of the diversity of an expanding Europe, changing agenda towards nationalism in some countries, and always true to the founding concepts of ADEE, co-created through consensus and collaboration.

COVID and its impact

Like many of our member institutions, ADEE was impacted by the arrival of COVID-19 in spring 2020. For the first time, we had to cancel our annual meeting, prompting us to develop plans to prevent future disruptions. In 2021 Strasbourg hosted our first online Annual Meeting, allowing participation in seminars over three months. While not ideal, it maintained our presence and impact. In 2022, we returned to in-person presentations in Palma, Spain, with 350 delegates.

The pandemic also led to the development of valuable online resources, such as the interactive GED webpages, and the publication of COVID-19: The Immediate Response of European Academic Dental Institutions and Future Implications for Dental Education, which has been cited over 250 times in two years. This highlights ADEE's and its members' role as a leading voice in Oral Health Professionals' Education in Europe.

The O-Health-Edu Erasmus project

2019 saw ADEE return to the Erasmus + arena for the first time in over a decade. At the invitation of ADEE President Prof Stephanie Tubert Jeannin France, (2018 – 2019), ADEE participated as dissemination partners for what was termed the O-Health-Edu Project led by the University of Clermont Ferrand, France.

The project set a new vision and narrative for the education of Oral Health Professionals' Education and delivered on 13 intellectual outputs. One key output was a vision Oral Health Professional's Education co-signed by key stakeholders representing students, the dental profession, educators, regulators and other key partners.

ADEE Palma 2022: Reconnect, Rethink, Refresh, Rebuild, Reward

Our first post COVID meeting carried us to Palma de Mallorca - Islas Baleares. Returning with a somewhat smaller attendance level, 350 delegates enthusiastically shared and explored lessons from our immediate past and how COVID was changing our profession in many ways. We also had the opportunity to participate in the Graduation ceremony of our hosts first dental class from ADEMA. What was most obvious on our return was the importance ADEE delegates placed on in person connection and networking.

ADEE 2023 Liverpool: Collaborative Education in a digital era

With COVID now becoming a memory for most, ADEE 2023 saw 500 plus delegates join us in Liverpool UK to explore how the post covid rise in AI, technologies and the new norms of education are taking hold and shaping how we teach and assess.

Liverpool was an exemplary host city, offering us museums, a Beatles tribute band and a launch of our new awards showcasing the efforts of our members in the area of sustainability in collaboration with Henry Schein.

From the 7th to 10th September 2024, 500 delegates participated in ADEE 2024 hosted by KU Leuven, Belgium. Our theme focused on AI and its growing impact on education, the meeting also included a vast array of workshops, special interest groups and communities of practice.

For the first time ever our meeting integrated guided delegate wellbeing sessions, including a guided city walk and run. Of course it being Belgium we also experienced a warm welcome and some local culture and culinary treats.

ADEE ANNUAL MEETING
LEUVEN
BELGIUM
7-10 SEPTEMBER 2024

To mark our 50th anniversary year and the fact that the ADEE office has now been located for 21 years within the Dublin Dental University Hospital, ADEE's former administrator Majella Giles sat down with Professor Derry Shanley to reflect on ADEE. Their discussion can be read in full on our website but we wanted to share here three key points.

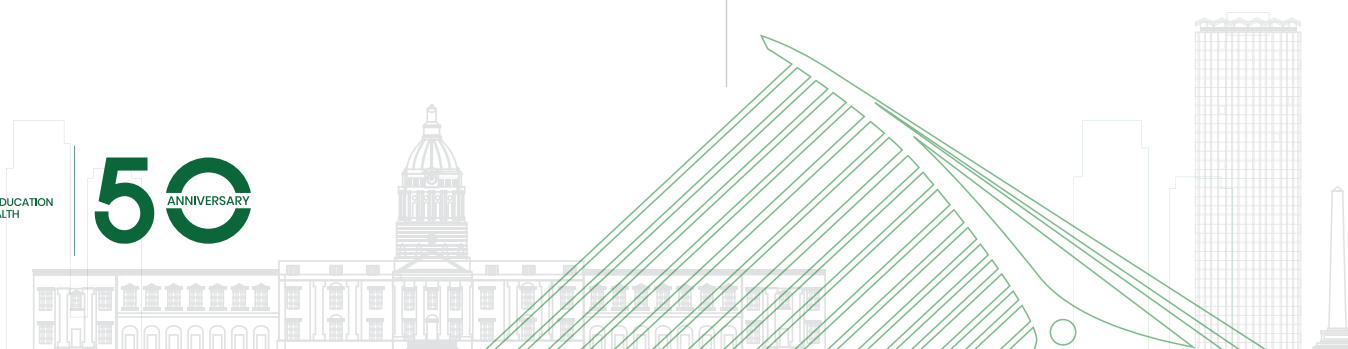

Ms Majella Giles
ADEE Administrator
2004-2013
DentEd Administrator
1998-2003

Majella's connection to the work of ADEE spans 15 years. Joining as the DentEd administrator in 1998 and seeing this work through to completion, she became ADEE's first full-time paid staff member in 2004. Her work enabled the steady growth of ADEE to become what it is today by quickly establishing a solid permanent administrative and support function for the then ADEE executive from its base in Dublin Dental University Hospital.

Prof Diarmuid "Derry" Shanley
ADEE Secretary General
1990-1991
ADEE President
1996-1997

Derry's role with ADEE is synonymous. He brought leadership, friendship and enthusiasm for the convergence to his work on global standards in dental education. He served as both ADEE Secretary General 1990-1991 and ADEE President 1996-1997, and was also instrumental in establishing the DentEd projects and three Global Congresses on Dental education. Outside of ADEE he served as Trinity College Dublin Dean of Dental Affairs (1985-2000).

What for you was ADEE's greatest achievement during your term of office?

M. Giles

I think it has to be the peer-review visitations to dental schools throughout Europe initially, and expanded internationally thereafter... ADEE recognised that educational approaches differed between European countries... A Pan-European approach required generous concessions and a nuanced approach to ensure any changes were patient-orientated and considered socio-economic demographics whilst at the same time, satisfying the national dental educational requirements of individual EU member states...The DentEd approach in its first six years sought to avoid imposing a particular set of goals and outcomes but rather promoted working groups, with exchanges, findings, suggestions and recommendations. The peer influence was sufficient to prepare for DentEd III 2004-2007, which began the process of formal publication of a consensus on clinical competence, a more specific profile of the European dentist and appropriate methods of assessment, under the umbrella of a merged DentEd / ADEE.

D. Shanley

What is your fondest memory of ADEE?

M. Giles

My outstanding memory, amongst many key moments both convivial and ground-breaking, comes from 2001 as I watched the delegates assemble for the first Global Congress on Dental Education in Prague, where so many colleagues gathered from 160 dental schools in 47 countries to give their time and energy to pool their knowledge and intellectual resources for the betterment of their future colleagues in and of the communities they serve.

D. Shanley

What is your hope or aspiration for ADEE over the coming years?

M. Giles

...The success of the visitations programme is enabled in the collaborative approach whereby both visitor and visited gain from the process. It is my fervent hope that this approach is maintained in the collegiate way in which it was initially envisioned. The evidence as to the success of such an approach on the raising of standards globally, based on evidence informed consensus policy documents is compelling... In the current geo-political turmoil of 2025, the term global has assumed a different meaning, with national interests coming to the fore. Such self-interests run counter to the ethos fostered by ADEE and its inclusive approach, promoting diversity, difference, collegiality and mutual cooperation.

Comhghairdeas ADEE agus go n-eirí libh 'sna blianta atá le teacht! (Congratulations ADEE and continued success in the coming years!)

Prof Blánaid Daly
Trinity College Dublin
Dublin Dental
University Hospital

Welcome from Prof Blánaid Daly Dean of Dental Affairs and Head of School at the School of Dental Science, Trinity College Dublin

Dear international colleagues and friends

On behalf of the Dublin Dental University Hospital and the School of Dental Science Trinity College Dublin I am delighted to welcome you all to Dublin and our beautiful TCD city centre campus. ADEE and Dublin has a long history, indeed Prof O'Connell is ADEE's second Irish President, following the much renowned Prof Derry Shanley who served as president 1996-1997. Dublin Dental University Hospital has been the host of the ADEE office since 2004 making this year not just the 50th celebration of ADEE but also 21 years of ADEE being based in Dublin. So, I not only welcome you to my home city but to ADEE's home city.

Dental education is at a new crossroads with many exciting opportunities and challenges to be addressed. By coming together at opportunities provided by ADEE and similar organisations we can collectively address these. For this reason, you will see that the programme includes a number of inter association collaborations and meetings such as sessions with Forum of European Heads and Deans of Dental Schools (FEHDD), International Federation Of Dental Educators & Associations (IFDEA), and the UK & Ireland Dental Schools Council.

Together with the ADEE office and my colleagues on the Dublin local organising team we are confident we have developed an interesting programme of sessions that includes over 160 presentations by you, the ADEE members. We are also very pleased to have devised three meaningful plenaries that we hope will both challenge and inspire:

- Reimagining oral health professionals' education
- Reimagining dentistry within the inter professional healthcare team
- Sustainability in Action

Of course, we have also created what we feel is a suitable social programme to help you celebrate ADEE's milestone 50th Year and the team here in Dublin look forward to sharing some Irish culture with you as we celebrate.

I hope you have an enjoyable and productive time with us in Dublin.

LOCATION & Venue

Welcome to Dublin!

ADEE looks forward to welcoming you to Dublin for ADEE 2025 to celebrate our 50th Anniversary.

Our meeting venue will be the Trinity Business School, situated in the heart of Dublin on the main Trinity College Campus. All academic, exhibition and lunch events will be held at the business school site.

The Trinity College Campus is situated in the centre of Dublin city, a short walk from O'Connell or Grafton Street and surrounded by a busy shopping and business district.

Within the area of the Trinity campus you will find some of Ireland's most well known landmarks including:

- Book of Kells
- The Long Room - The Library of Trinity College Dublin

And nearby:

- The Oscar Wilde statue in Merrion Square
- Dublin Castle
- Christ Church Cathedral

The nearest public transport access points are as follows:

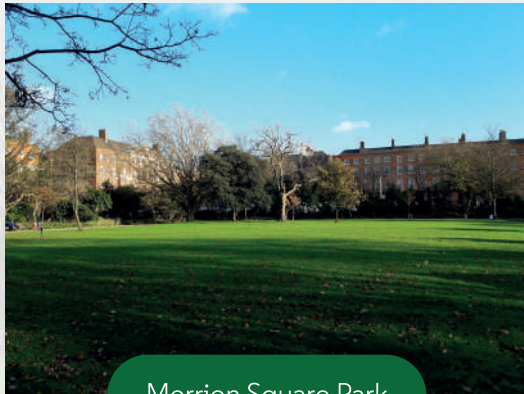

- LUAS tram service stop, Dawson Street, Trinity or Westmorland Street
- DART Pearse Street station
